The Air Force Academy is a national treasure. It has earned national awards and recognition making it one of the premier educational institutions in the country. In its short history, the Academy has established a tradition of producing leaders of character for the Air Force and nation—they include astronauts and doctors, pilots and support personnel, CEOs and entrepreneurs, lawyers and teachers, inventors and ministers, elected and appointed government officials and coaches and authors. Graduates have garnered this nation's highest awards including the Medal of Honor and numerous Air Force Crosses and Silver Stars.

LETTER FROM THE President and CEO

It is my sincere privilege to thank you, the graduates, parents, friends, corporations and foundations that passionately supported the Association of Graduates and the Air Force Academy during fiscal year 2008. Collectively, you gave nearly $6 million. Your tremendous support allowed our AOG to provide cadets and graduates with a broad range of truly exceptional programs.

The ongoing commitment by donors like you allows the AOG to provide cutting edge cadet and graduate support. As you read about the key accomplishments your contributions enabled this year, take pride in the significant impact each and every one of you have had on the AOG and the development of the fine young men and women of the Cadet Wing.

The cadet and graduate programs the Association of Graduates supports are a direct result of your generous contributions. Without you we can not provide services such as:

- Appointee Bed and Breakfast
- In-Processing
- Contrails
- Parents Handbook
- The Outstanding Squadron Banquet
- Class Ring Program
- Founders Day Events
- Class Legacy Program
- Distinguished Graduate Award
- Reunion Support
- AOG Web Site
- Graduate Career Services
- Nationwide Chapter Support
- Heritage Trail
- Mall of Heroes
- Next-of-Kin Support
- Harmon Memorial
- Memorial Pavilion
- Checkpoints

Your generous gifts also allow the AOG to support programs that touch every aspect of cadet life including:

- Cadet Clubs and Intramurals
- Cadet Squadron Improvements
- Internships with NASA, NATO and Congress
- Summer Research
- Academy Assembly
- Commandant's Character Education Seminars
- Admissions Recruitment Materials
- Engineering Programs
- Distinguished Guest Speakers Series
- Academy Counseling Center

Every contribution you make is extremely important and we will highlight several gifts in this report. I do, however, want to express a very special thank you to our Sabre Society, Polaris donors and major donors whose generosity, vision and philanthropic dedication to the AOG and the Academy blaze the path for our future!

Thank you again for your generosity.

Sincerely,

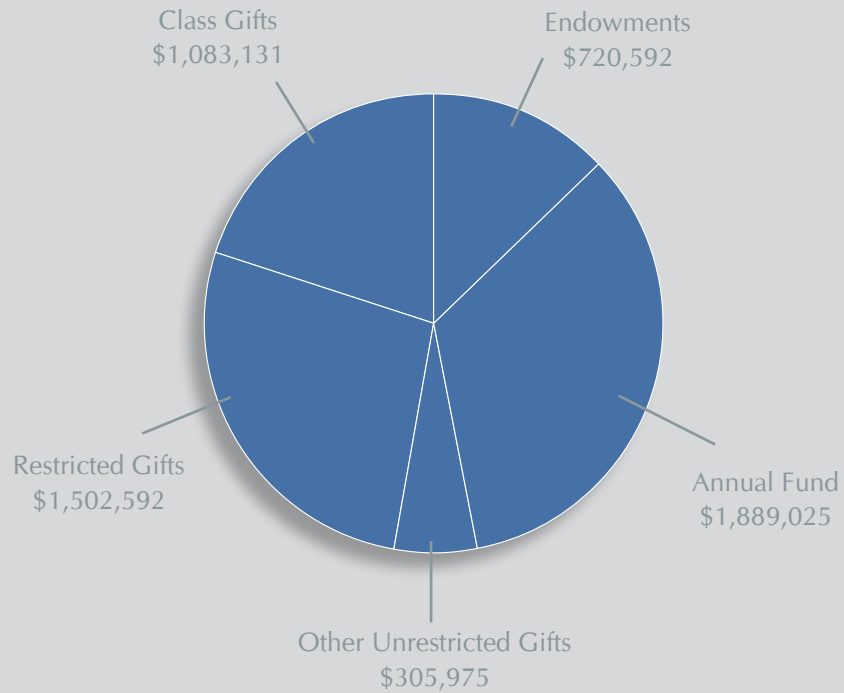

William T Thompson

DONOR SPOTLIGHT

There are more than 4,000 young men and women

There are more than 4,000 young men and women walking the terrazzo today with the dream of serving their nation and continuing the proud tradition of those who have gone before them. Providing the Air Force and the nation with powerful leaders of character who are more than equal to the challenges of the 21st century remains the ultimate goal of the Association of Graduates and our Air Force Academy.

The Association of Graduates is honored to highlight and share a few stories of this 2008 fiscal year's donors. We extend our profound appreciation for everyone's extraordinary commitment to the AOG and the Air Force Academy.

The "extra margin of excellence" which sets the Academy apart from other institutions is a direct result of your continued support. The success of character development programs; cadet academic initiatives; athletic programs along with the legacy provided for future cadet generations are a primary result of giving back. Thank you!

Just in Time Teaching

In December 2007, the Association of Graduates received a very generous gift from the Martinson Family Foundation (John H. Martinson, '70) to support the Just in Time Teaching Program. Because of this generosity, the Air Force Academy created a positive faculty development effort with the goal of improving the quality of education here at the United States Air Force Academy and beyond.

Over 3,000 cadets and 90 faculty members in more than 370 sections of 75 courses use the JiTT hosting software. Martinson's gift funds workshop planning, materials, adaptation of technological tools, JiTT curriculum planning services, JiTT consultants for teaching workshops and faculty mentoring. Feedback for the program is positive, constructive, and encouraging. JiTT enhances the ability of staff to establish an on-going teaching and learning experience at the United States Air Force Academy.

The Association of Graduates wishes to express a sincere thank you to the Martinson Family Foundation for their continued generosity, investment, and support for the Just in Time Teaching educational program.

ATHLETICS

Bob and Carolie Kay

Bob and Carolie Kay's son, Chris, graduated from the Academy in 1997. Chris was a star athlete in basketball and played four years at USAFA. Upon graduation, he entered the Air Force and is a contracting officer stationed in Cheyenne, WY.

The Academy is important to Chris, Bob, and Carolie. In their hometown of Richmond, VA, Bob "scouts" up and coming basketball players for USAFA's team. With philanthropic dollars, Bob and Carolie saw a way to have a real impact at the Academy. Presently, USAFA's basketball team is succeeding with the second lowest budget in the Mountain West Conference. The program is on the cusp of achieving regular post-season play and accolades. With an infusion of dollars, the team will play on the next level by being able to afford things like an overseas competitive trip. Bob and Carolie pledged $100,000 to support the team for the next few years. They saw their commitment as a way to support a program that played an instrumental role in their son's life, while helping to build USAFA's next great athletic program.

CLASS GIVING

Class Gift Honors All Grads

The Class of '81's commitment to "Service before self and excellence in all we do" is aptly illustrated by an impressive Record Locator Room recently gifted to the USAFA Cemetery and to each graduate. The newly completed Locator Room was funded by the class as part of their 25th Reunion campaign and is similar to the one at Arlington National Cemetery. The Locator allows visitors to quickly find loved ones interred within our hallowed ground. Class Giving Chair Rich Trentman explained that his class elected to fund this need to honor "those brothers and sisters who rest here."

The Directory Building in which the room is located is near the cemetery's west entrance. Its architectural design ensures that each marble facing, a terrazzo terrace and all metal framing closely match those found in the Cadet Area. Because all original Academy structures were built on a north-south or east-west footprint, the building is constructed on a true north-south heading. Ample glass and natural lighting provide visitors a panoramic view of the entire cemetery as they begin their visit.

The Locator Room houses a touch screen information center offering an array of valuable information. The system lists USAFA graduates honored on the War Memorial. It specifies the exact location of every grave and details the most convenient route to that location. A selection titled "Gone But Not Forgotten" provides guests specific information about each of our honored dead. Those buried here may be located by class year, last name, or cadet squadron. Information presented includes a cadet photograph, class year and a biographical tribute; complimented by a respectful rendition of "Taps."

The project was an important part of $4.7 million of cemetery improvements known as the Memorial Pavilion. The complex has already earned a top Air Force design award and is collectively funded by the Classes of '66, '81, '83, '84 and other graduates and friends of the Academy.

Services are no longer exposed to Colorado's unpredictable weather. Graduates and others have contributed to these improvements to honor all Academy graduates for their unwavering service to the United States of America.

2008 TOTAL ANNUAL GIVING GRADS/ALUMNI

Graduates and Alumni of the U.S. Air Force Academy donated more than $1 million to support the Association of Graduates and Air Force Academy. Their continued support and confidence in Academy programs helps ensure the Academy is well positioned to meet the challenges of coming years.

The following list identifies these donors by class and giving levels. Graduates and alumni are listed first, and their spouses are listed second. In the case of graduates married to graduates, the member of the respective class is listed first. Non-graduate alumni are listed under the class with which they entered the Academy.

Brig. Gen. (Ret.) and Mrs. Donald R. Walker

Even though I left the Air Force in 2003, the Air Force Academy still makes a positive impact on my everyday life. The lessons I learned as a cadet and the experiences I had at such a young age shaped the person that I am today. People are often surprised to learn that I went to a Service Academy, as an Academy education is a rare thing outside the military community. I feel lucky to have had the privilege of attending USAFA and benefiting from the generosity of AOG donations. Now that I am in a position to donate, it was an easy choice to commit to giving a few dollars a day to the place which had such a fundamental impact on my life.

CORPORATE GIVING

The Eisenhower Center for Space and Defense Studies

The Boeing Space and Intelligence Systems along with Northrop Grumman, and Lockheed Martin together made a generous donation to the Eisenhower Center for Space and Defense Studies this past year funding new educational opportunities for cadets in space policy.

Established in 2005, the Eisenhower Center works to integrate existing space programs across the Academy, foster a national dialogue on space issues among all sectors of the space community, create an intellectual foundation for national space policy, and develop successive generations of Air Force Officers with a vocation for space. The Center builds on the unique advantages of the Academy as an interdisciplinary faculty with, existing technical centers for the study of space in physics and astronautics.

The Eisenhower Center is named in honor of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the first American president to formulate a national policy integrating defense and national interest in the domain of space. The mission is to provide an intellectual foundation for the integration of space policy in the overall national security policy of the United States.

Funding for the Eisenhower Center comes entirely from external sources. It is your generosity that allows the Association of Graduates, in conjunction with the Academy, to provide our cadets the leadership qualities necessary to be successful in our Air Force and to serve as leaders and role models throughout the nation.

“The willingness with which our young people are likely to serve in any war, no matter how justified, shall be directly proportional as to how they perceive the veterans of earlier wars were treated and appreciated by their nation.”

–President George Washington

MATCHING GIFTS

In 1954 the General Electric Foundation introduced a new concept to the world of corporate philanthropy. This concept, which enabled the company to support the colleges and universities that educated its employees, as well as encouraged employees to contribute to their alma maters, became known as the General Electric Corporate Alumnus Program. Introduced by Philip D. Reed, retired General Electric Company board chairman, the program continues to accomplish its original goals. “It seems appropriate and fair,” Reed said, “that both the individuals and the organizations with which they ally themselves should undertake some measure of support for the colleges and universities which play such an important role in American life.” Time would show that with this opinion, he was not alone. Many corporate executives, in an effort to stimulate support for educational institutions, followed this trend setting example.

So, what are matching gifts? They always start with a contribution from an employee or other eligible individuals supported by a corporation, like a spouse or retiree. The gift, when made to an eligible organization, is matched by the corporation. Matching gift programs stimulate individual giving nationally and internationally. These programs challenge the individual and the recipient organization to take advantage of the potential increase in support offered by companies to charitable causes.

It is the Association of Graduates pleasure to say “Thank You” to more than 1,000 individuals who put forth the time and effort to participate in the matching gift program. During the 2008 fiscal year the Association of Graduates successfully raised over $221,000 in matching gifts to help support the needs of the AOG and the Academy. Whether they were class projects, graduate, cadet or heritage programs, your participation truly makes a difference.

GIFTS FROM COMPANIES, FOUNDATIONS, PARENTS, FAMILY AND FRIENDS

Gifts from companies, foundations, parents, family and friends of the U.S. Air Force Academy contribute to an important role in enriching the Academy experience for our future leaders.

"Our son decided at a very young age to follow his family heritage into a career as an Air Force officer. Now that he is a two degree, we have seen firsthand how support provided by the Association of Graduates helped him live his dream. From our first introduction to the AOG two years ago when we dropped Joe off at Doolittle Hall, we have been grateful for the support they provide parents and cadets. When Joe became a cadet, we decided to return a measure of gratitude by making a tax deductible contribution to the Air Force Academy Fund at the Sabre Society level for four years."

THE SABRE SOCIETY

The Sabre Society was founded in 1995 to recognize a very special group of Air Force Academy donors. Today, the Sabre Society includes graduates, parents and friends who make annual unrestricted gifts of $1,000 or more to the Association of Graduates Air Force Academy fund. This group of loyal donors shares a commitment to the Air Force Academy's outstanding academic and leadership reputation as well as the Association of Graduates programs and services.

- "Sabre Society Level Gifts Received" refers to $1,000 + unrestricted one time gifts and pledge payments received during FY 08. It does not include pledges secured during FY 08.

THE GUIDON SOCIETY

Benefactors who support the Academy on a continuing basis subscribe to the tradition of philanthropy that plays a vital role in the success of the Air Force Academy. We are pleased to introduce the Guidon Society, to recognize those individuals, corporations and foundations who have cumulatively given $100,000 or more as of June 2008. Their contributions lead the way to Building Leaders of Character for the Nation for generations to come.

THE POLARIS SOCIETY

Planned Gift Commitments (life-income agreements, life insurance, estate plan gifts, etc) are another way donors make a commitment to the Academy. If you would like more information on our planned giving options or have already put the Academy in your plans, please contact the AOG for more information.

Listed below are individuals who have included the AOG in their estate planning. We are truly grateful for their expression of support.

PLANNED GIVING

Holly Emrick Svetz Helps USAF Academy Maintain its Edge

Attending the USAF Academy gave Holly Emrick Svetz an edge in life that would lead to success in not one, but two careers. In appreciation, she is now helping the Academy maintain its edge in the world of academia—and encourages other graduates to do the same.

Svetz, who graduated with the Class of 1980, makes annual gifts to the Academy and also arranged to support the Academy through a trust.

“The Academy changed the focus of my life,” says Svetz, who served 10½ years in uniform as an engineer and acquisitions program manager before going to law school. Today, she is a partner in one of the East Coast’s largest law firms.

In discussing the value of the Academy to the country as a whole, and to its graduates as individuals, Svetz notes that federal funding is not keeping up with current needs. As a result, cadets may one day find themselves lacking cutting-edge technology in areas such as biodefense and nanotechnology.

“Donor support helped build the Academy. Several parts, including the football stadium, were built totally by gifts, and not through appropriations,” Svetz says.

“It has been that way from the very first days of the Academy, and it’s something that needs to continue.” Svetz says that her trust was established primarily for tax purposes, but that she wants a portion of the money, after she is gone and family is cared for, to go to “something useful.” That “something useful” is the USAF Academy.

“There was room for a contribution to the Academy,” she says, “and I do feel that it’s important for people who can give, to give—that people who can offer their support, should. I feel that obligation.”

“I recommend that all graduates realize the impact the Air Force Academy has had on their lives, and take steps to help preserve this long blue line.”

—Lt. Col. (Ret.) Glenn Coleman

TESTIMONIAL

Lt. Col. (Ret.) Glenn Coleman Appreciates Opportunity to “Give Back”

Glenn Coleman will never forget that as a young man, fresh out of high school, he stood at a fork in the road, unsure of life’s possibilities and the direction he would take. Today, nearly 50 years later, Coleman has no doubt that he selected the right path—the path that led directly through the U.S. Air Force Academy.

“Thank God for that fork in the road, and thank God that I took it and came to the Academy,” says Coleman, a 1964 graduate. “Every aspect of my life was affected. I was given talents, knowledge and courage. I was given a life and a career.

“I understand very clearly the gifts that have been given to me.”

In appreciation, Coleman established a charitable gift annuity with the Academy’s Association of Graduates.

“I recommend all graduates realize the impact that the Air Force Academy has had on their lives, and take steps to help preserve this long blue line,” says Coleman, who spent 20 years on active duty before retiring as a lieutenant colonel and starting a second, successful career in corporate ethics.

“I taught corporate ethics in 17 countries and have written more than 400 articles on the subject,” he says. “It was all based on what I learned at the Academy and in the military.”

Coleman feels that as a donor, his charitable gift annuity provides “the best of all worlds.” It allows him to make a charitable gift while he’s still alive, and in the process receive tax breaks and regular payments.

Setting up the CGA was “really simple,” he says. “The Association of Graduates provides professional help—just tell them what you want and they’ll make it happen. I appreciate the opportunity to give back to an institution that gave so much to me.”
